

Telefónica

O₂

Profession: Developer

think big

is a Telefónica Foundation Programm

start small

Profession:

Developer

The brain behind the code

Skills & Abilities:

- Affinity for technology
- Logical thinking
- Ability to work in a team

Educational Prerequisites:

To successfully start as a developer, you should definitely have studied an information/technology or have further training in programming. Knowledge of programming languages is required as well.

Job Details:

As a developer you realize and program designs from commissioned software programs. This profession you will also have to improve and repair existing applications. Out of your code rise applications and programs. You are the heart of the development process for an app.

Future Opportunities:

As a developer you can earn on average 40.000 euros a year, in which the scope of your work leaves room to earn much more. In general, the profession of programming is very future proof. Creating fully functional programs and apps will be in the interest of big companies for many years to come.